Church Welcome Sign Is Praised by Tourist on 67

Chattanooga (Tenn.) Woman Writes Letter to M. E. Pastor

NAME COMMITTEE

Group Erects Church Signs at Either Approach on No. 67

The following letter was received this week by Rev. Fred R. Harrison, pastor of First Methodist church: 359 Derby Road, Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 10, 1938.

Pastor, First Methodist Church, Hope, Arkansas.

Dear Sir: Recently we passed through your city on a trip to Texas, and it came to our attention that Hope, Ark., left us with the best impression of any town through which we passed.

We felt we would like you to know, also your local Chamber of Commerce, that while we were welcomed to every city on the route by beers, ales, automobile tires, cafes, hotels and organizations, it was only at Hope we were "welcomed" by a church. We really felt welcome.

(Signed) Mrs. J. M. Munins.

Sign Boards

The "welcome" so warmly praised in this letter was given by the sign boards at the city limits on either end of Highway 67, erected during the summer by the Board of Stewards of First Methodist church. A suggestion from J. C. Carlton, a member of the local church, that such signs be erected, was executed by a committee from the board, composed of Charles Harrell, John P. Ridgill and Clifford Franke.

There was a double purpose in building these signboards. They were to give a welcome to tourists to stop a few minutes at First Methodist church for meditation during the day, between the hours of 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. when the church doors would be open. Then these signs were to give a welcome, on behalf of the Church, to Hope.

The signs, which are 5 feet wide and 8 feet high, carry the following message:

Stop To Meditate or Worship 8 A. M. to 5 P. M. Daily FIRST METHODIST CHURCH Hope, Arkansas

Smaller signs, bearing the words "Methodist Church" pointing toward the church building, were also placed at either corner of the intersection of Pine street and the highway.

J. K. Prescott Is Senior Republican

Emmet Man Member of State Committee Longer Than Anyone

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—J. K. Prescott of Emmet was on hand Tuesday as a delegate from Nevada county to the Republican State Convention. He has been a member of the state committee as long as anyone can remember, including himself, and said Tuesday that he recalled missing only one state convention in the past 20 years.

On that occasion he was too ill to attend. Mr. Prescott, who moved to Emmet from Hempstead county 28 years ago, has had a varied experience. He served several years as a railway mail clerk, 10 years as postmaster, a lot of experience with farming, 20 years on the city council and 18 years as a newspaper agent. He said none of these followings were quite as much to his liking as his earlier experience as a traveling salesman, when he sold everything from tomatoes to sewing machines.

This steadfast Republican from southwest Arkansas has six married sons and daughters, most of whom live in the vicinity of Emmet. His namesake, J. K. Prescott Jr., is in the oil business at Henderson, Ky.

The twenty-two Chinese have all been sentenced to death for crimes committed within the International Concession but execution has been delayed through the fact that Japanese invaders have occupied all Chinese territory adjacent to the Settlement. Under the arrangement existing between the Settlement and Chinese Government authorities the executions must be carried out in Chinese territory.

Shanghai Municipal Police officials are now attempting to solve the jail and execution problem with a request to the Chinese Government authorities in Chungking to modify the arrangements so that the men may be executed within the jail grounds.

If and when the Chinese Government grants the request the police must also secure approval from the Consular Body, composed of consuls of the various powers, who play a dominant role in the involved administration of this international settlement in China.

Prior to the outbreak of hostilities all Chinese found guilty of major crimes in the Settlement and ordered executed were—on the day set for their death—turned over to Chinese authorities. They were immediately taken to the "model prison" in Chinese territory where the execution occurred.

Japanese now occupy the "model prison" and all territory surrounding Shanghai, so that it is impossible to secure a court order or carry out the death sentence.

The twenty-two prisoners, some of whom have been awaiting death for nearly a year, were all convicted of armed robbery, murder, kidnapping or other crimes involving the death penalty under Chinese law.

Son Recovering, President Anxious Over Foreign Situation

ROCHESTER, Minn.—(AP)—President Roosevelt left here for Washington at 11:38 a. m. Wednesday after talking with Secretary of State Hull by telephone.

Heads for Capital

ROCHESTER, Minn.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, concerned about the European crisis, arranged to return eastward Wednesday by a route which may take him directly to Washington. Originally, Roosevelt expected to return to the summer White House at Hyde Park, N. Y.

The chief executive, who has been a frequent visitor to his son James, who is recuperating satisfactorily from an operation performed last Sunday, has been keeping hour-by-hour communication with the Department of State.

Hot Springs, Ark.—(AP)—Without attempting to name the "triggle man," the Grand county grand jury returned Wednesday a first degree murder indictment against four persons in the slaying last week of Elton Cooley, 26, Hot Springs chain grocery official.

Indicted were: Joseph B. (Smoky Joe) Anderson, 37, his wife, Lucille, 33, both of Indiana. Alfred (Pug) Dickson, 35, Clarence (Bill) Johnson, 23, of Hot Springs.

Three persons were indicted on two charges of accessory after murder and robbery, but only one, against Herbert Johnson, 27, brother of Clarence, was published. Officers explained that the other two persons, both women, were not in custody, but their arrests were expected momentarily.

Little Rock Native

LITTLE ROCK.—Joseph B. Anderson, 37, held here for Hot Springs officers to face charges of killing Elton Cooley, grocer, really is Buford Goad, formerly a resident of Little Rock, whose father, a well known grocer, died several years ago, officers said Tuesday after the prisoner admitted slaying a taxi cab driver near Frankfort, Ind., and a motorist at Detroit, Mich., since August 23.

The prisoner sought to keep his identity a secret in consideration for his family.

Anderson, as he was ducked and referred to in statements obtained by both Arkansas and Indiana State Police, is a tubercular. He described his case as hopeless. He said he had lost about 60 pounds during the past two months.

The prisoner left Little Rock prior to 1924 F. B. I. records show he was first arrested in Kansas City in that year as a prowler. He was fined $50. Since then much of his life has been spent in jails and prisons. His record included more than a dozen charges, and according to his own admission, murder was added last month.

"I know there's something wrong with me," Anderson said Tuesday night, "but what it is I don't know. I know right from wrong but still I can't explain why I followed this life."

Hitler Beckons: But Czechs Wave Guns

Top Right—Rumors flashing across Europe to the effect that Germany has massed 200,000 men on the Czech frontier gave the Continent new jitters over the intensely dangerous Sudeten-Czech crisis but found Czechoslovakia calm—and ready. With such units waiting on the frontier, Czechoslovakia's small but efficient army expects to hold back the German invader until her allies can send aid.

As leading Nazis made bellicose speeches, Czechoslovakia's President Eduard Benes addressed his people over the radio in a moderate speech asking them to remain calm, pleading for the loyalty of the Sudeten Germans and expressing faith in the "brilliant" Czech army and the worth of his peace efforts. The radiophoto above shows him calmly making his speech.

Hobbies and Antique Booth for Fair Here

A special booth is being provided at the County Fair, September 20-24, for displays by collectors of antiques, books, glassware, dolls, autographs, minerals, rocks, firearms, stamps and other items.

The Rev. Thomas Brewster said he would be glad to contact those who wish to furnish exhibits, and urged co-operation to make the exhibit a success.

Exhibits will not be received until next Monday when further announcements will be made in regard to the hobbies and antique booth.

Damage Suit Filed After Auto Wreck

R. O. Robins Seeks $250 Damage Against Melvin Rephan

A damage suit was filed in the office of the circuit clerk this week as the result of an automobile collision late Saturday night on Highway 67 between Hope and Fulton.

The suit was brought by R. O. Robins seeking damages of $250 to his car. The complaint named Melvin Rephan, traveling salesman from Hot Springs, as the defendant.

The suit also named Miss Ethel Robinson as the driver of the Rephan car.

No one was seriously injured in the accident. It was reported that Oscar Greenberg and Ethel Robinson had borrowed the Rephan car which figured in the collision with the Robins car, driven by R. O. Robins.

The case will be heard at the October term of circuit court. Attorney John P. Vsey, representing Robins, filed the suit.

Friday Deadline for Civil Service

Eligibles Must Be Placed in County Welfare Positions

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The State Personnel Department announced Wednesday that employees of the various county welfare boards would be dropped from the state payroll Friday unless the boards by which they were employed requisition eligibles from the civil service lists to replace non-classified workers.

The state supreme court held several months ago that all county welfare employees should be under civil service, giving the county boards until September 15 to meet the requirements of the ruling.

The personnel department said non-classified workers likely to be affected by the stop-salary order included 20 county directors, 22 county visitors, and 24 junior stenographers.

Incumbents Lead in Louisiana Vote

Mills, Backed by Leche, Flayed by Long, Holds Lead

BATON ROUGE, La.—(AP)—Early unofficial returns from Tuesday's Democratic primary in the three Louisiana districts where incumbents faced opposition showed the three incumbents in the lead.

Representative Newt V. Mills of the Fifth district, a colonel on the staff of Gov. Richard W. Leche, but whose defeat was urged in a personal campaign conducted by Lieut. Gov. Earl K. Long, brother of the late Senator Huey Long, was leading the field in a five-man race.

Dr. John Griffith, Sixth district representative for whom Governor Leche campaigned the district, forged into a towering lead over James H. Morrison, critic of the Leche administration, and Jesse H. Bankston, running a poor third.

Scattered returns from the Fourth district gave Representative T. Overton Brooks a three-to-one lead over his opponent, J. Frank Colbert.

Asserts Party Must Abandon Old Attitude Toward South

LITTLE ROCK.—Former Gov. Alfred M. Landon of Kansas, 1936 Republican candidate for president, issued what was interpreted as a bid for support of Southern conservatives in the November general election and 1940 presidential campaigns in an address at Foster bandshell, City Park Tuesday night.

Mr. Landon told his audience of several thousand here and in the nation, over a radio hook-up, that the Republican party must discontinue those policies which discriminated against the Southern states.

BULLETIN

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—It was officially announced Wednesday night that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain would fly to Germany Thursday to see Reichsfuehrer in an effort to assure peace.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia.—(AP)—Dispatches from the Sudeten border region Wednesday night said 2,000 Sudeten Germans using rifles and machine-guns and throwing hand-grenades, attacked the Czechoslovak gendarmerie station at Schwaderback near the German frontier.

At least eight persons were reported killed. Dispatches said bloody fighting continued into the night.

Earlier Battle

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—A Reuters (British News Agency) dispatch from Prague Wednesday reported that the Sudeten German party headquarters said a "regular battle" was in progress near Falkenau, northwestern Czechoslovakia, between the Sudetens, Czechoslovak troops and police.

Sudeten leaders said heavy tanks were being used in the conflict, and that between 10 and 15 Czech gendarmes had been killed, according to the dispatch. The losses of the Sudeten Germans were described as "much heavier" but no figure was given.

The trouble was said by the Sudetens to have begun in a fight between "Communists" and Sudetens. The gendarmes attempted to separate the belligerents without using weapons, reports said, but were forced to retreat into a police station, where they were attacked by the crowd.

Czechs Deny "Battle"

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—A Reuters dispatch from Prague Wednesday said the Czechoslovak government issued a "flat denial" of a report by the Sudeten headquarters of a battle between Sudetens and Czech police near Falkenau.

Czechs Throw in Troops

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia.—(AP)—The Czechoslovak government commanded Prague city motor buses Wednesday to rush new troops into the Sudeten German area and thus strengthen martial law and halt further disorders there.

A government source emphasized that there were no special troop movements toward the tense Czechoslovak-German frontier, but said motorized units were reinforcing soldiers and civil authorities in the eight Sudeten German districts which 12 persons were killed and many injured in clashes following Adolf Hitler's Nuremberg attack upon Czechoslovakia in a speech Monday.

The Prague government ignored the Sudeten ultimatum for termination of martial law.

By the Associated Press

The Czechoslovak government Tuesday night ignored a Sudeten German ultimatum to withdraw martial law from disorderly border regions or take the "responsibility for all future developments."

Europe's war-like fever mounted especially when it was learned Konrad Henlein, Sudeten leader, had discharged his commission delegated to negotiate with the government on his demands for the German minority, and had broken off discussions with Prague.

The government's martial law step followed widespread disorders in the Sudeten areas in which 12 persons, at least, were killed. Disorderly crowds attacked public buildings in various towns and villages in the German-populated districts, ran up the swastika on flagpoles, fought with police, and demonstrated widely, shouting anti-Semitic songs and slogans.

Part of the government's drastic step provided the death penalty by special courts for persons breaching

One of Your Rights Is to Maintain Your Balance

THE old camp-meeting hymn which exhorts all present to count their many blessings, naming them over carefully one by one, might not be a bad theme song for the people of the United States these days.

Counting your blessings may give you a touch of sinful pride, but it also helps you to realize how valuable some of the blessings really are; and that in turn makes it much less likely that you will submit meekly if and when somebody comes along and tries to take them away from you.

And the blessing that might be examined most closely just now is that familiar, much-talked-of, taken-for-granted thing—a free press.

You can appreciate it best by having a look at the sort of thing that happens where a free press does not exist.

A CURRENT dispatch from Berlin to the New York Herald-Tribune begins like this:

"The Nazi press attained new heights today in its choice of violent language to condemn the Checks for 'arrogant, terroristic acts' in Sudeten territory. Streamer headlines in 'Der Angriff,' organ of Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, read: 'Sudetenland in Greatest Distress—Violent Terror of Czech Bands—Unleashed Mods Raging Through Deutsches Land.'"

Picture to yourself, now, the way you would feel, as an ardent and patriotic German for a week or so. You would be straining at the leash, probably. Before long you would be in a frame of mind to support any warlike action your government might choose to indulge in, and in the end you would probably hail war itself as a noble act of liberation and a blow against a shameful tyranny.

Behind the scenes, of course, the wire-pullers who want the whole German nation to feel precisely that way. The Nazi press campaign is simply a means of making sure that Hitler will have solid support for any belligerent course he may take. And since no one can present the other side of the question—since no paper in all Germany can hint that these reports from Czechoslovakia are overdrawn—the press campaign is bound to succeed.

And that means that the German people have been placed at the mercy of their own emotions. They can be played upon by their own government, and they have no defense—because every avenue through which their emotions can be reached, every inlet for news and propaganda, is in the hands of the government.

IT IS that sort of thing which a free press prevents. Propaganda does exist, of course, even where the press is free, and false reports do circulate; but there is always a counterweight on the other side. The citizen has a chance to use his own judgment.

What is happening in Germany right now is perhaps the most powerful of all possible arguments for a free, uncontrolled press.

Unearthly Realm

TIBET, possibly the remotest and least real land on the face of the earth for most citizens of this hemisphere, turns up in the news again. The Jaltsab, virtual ruler of that land, has died.

Those westerners who have conceived any definite notion about Tibet have probably formed it largely from stories concerning the search for a successor to the late Dalai Lama, or from James Hilton's "Lost Horizon."

Tibet, it would seem, is a land populated almost exclusively by monks who spend their lives contemplating the infinite from the tops of mountains. From time to time they take a sock at a brass gong, and now and then they go in for training pigeons to fly with bells attached to their legs. The few laymen in the country are a simple, contented lot who sit around and wait for the Dalai Lama's reincarnation.

But the picture changes as news of the Jaltsab's death arrives. It seems there's a terrible squabble going on for domination of the country. The landed gentry, the young Tibetan Party, the heads of three monasteries, and the army bunch are brawling like opposing factions in a precinct committee. "Fled is that music:—Do I wake or sleep?"

Muscles Receive Necessary Oxygen Through Aid of Iron in the Blood

Probably the most essential single substance in the human body is the blood. No doubt among the most important of all of the characteristics of the blood is its power to transport iron.

When a muscle in the human body acts, it produces lactic acid. This applies not only to the large muscles with which we work, but also to such muscles as the heart which maintain the circulation of the blood. The factor which limits the amount of muscular work that the body can do is the rate at which lactic acid can be removed from the muscles by oxygen.

The rate at which oxygen is supplied to the muscles determines the horsepower or efficiency of the human being. In order to get oxygen to the tissues it is necessary to bring it from the air that is breathed into the lungs to the very cells by which it is to be used.

For this purpose the blood must have iron, since it is the iron in the blood which is primarily responsible for transporting the oxygen.

With tiny animals it is not difficult to get oxygen into the tissues, because in these animals every portion of the body is near the surface. The mechanism by which this has developed in man is one of the most interesting and intricate in all of our knowledge of science.

Oxygen is taken up in the lungs. In the lungs the blood is separated from the outside air by a thin membrane or tissue through which oxygen can easily pass. In the lungs as well as in the more remote parts of the body, where the blood comes in contact with the tissue it is to serve, the blood vessels break up into tiny capillaries with thin walls through which oxygen can pass easily.

Ordinary blood, which is a rather dark purple when it is first seen, becomes bright scarlet when it is exposed to the air. Blood in the arteries is full of oxygen and is a bright scarlet. The blood in the veins which has already been relieved of its oxygen and which is on its way back to the lungs is a dark purple color, because it is deficient in oxygen.

The red material that is present in the blood in large amounts is intimate-

THEY were sitting at a table in the clubhouse when Monte Hill exploded his bombshell.

"Look—look!" Linda grabbed her uncle's arm. They were running wide into the stretch—Golden Toy was bearing out, carrying Merry Maid with him. "That darn colt!" Sandy Gordon began, then changed his tune. "Nope—Marder's got him; they just went out a little way—they comin' home in the middle o' the track."

Down the last two furlongs the colt and the filly pounded—neck and neck.

"Uncle Sandy—Uncle Sandy! Come on!" In excitement Linda seized the horseman's arm, started toward the finish line.

A great golden chestnut—a dark bay—they shot under the wire together noses on a line—

Uncle Sandy stopped. "Durn if I ain't afraid—" He didn't finish the thought.

A sign flashed from the bulletin board:

"The judges," Uncle Sandy said calmly, "they goin' to look at the picture—look from top o' the grandstand. The nag whose nose touches the wire in that picture—he or she wins. Won't take but a minute for that high-speed camera to show 'em."

He led her to the vacant winner's circle, by the judges' stand. In a moment the horses would center back, the jockeys weigh out—

BUZZING sound overhead—a metal carrier slid down a trolley from the grandstand to the judges. It held the picture. With her heart pounding furiously, Linda saw the judges take it out—look at it—nod in agreement. The senior judge rose, pushed a button—

A light flashed on the bulletin board:

RESULT No. 1

Golden Toy won!

"Wait—wait! official yet?" Uncle Sandy warned, as Linda turned, exulting, to him. "Why—what could there be—" she broke off, as she saw Monte Hill step from the group of trainers and go up to the judges' stand.

"Don't lead him in yet," a judge called from the pagoda as Golden Toy galloped up. Monte Hill and his jockey were with the judges, talking excitedly. Suddenly a light flashed on the bulletin board—a gigantic gasp went up from the stands:

Paul Harrison in Hollywood

(This is the fifth of six interviews which Mr. Harrison got at great risk to life and limb. He hasn't been taking hashish; he has just been sitting and thinking.)

HOLLYWOOD.—An interview with the screen's leading baby:

Q.—Your name is Paul Clark, Jr., age 9 months? And isn't that Marie Wilson's lap you're sitting on?

A.—Yes, we've been good friends since we each got our big break in "Boy Meets Girl." She's aiding my career a great deal now by conching me in dialog. Say something to the nice man, Marie.

Reply to Miss Wilson: Oo-o-o-o!—wuzzums nuzzums nuzzums!

A.—You see how she talks; helps keep me in character. Of course I don't think I'm really any more childish than lots of other people in this business. No wonder it's called "the infant industry!"

Q.—Surely you don't mean there are too many children.

A.—No, I mean "childish" as adults use the term. Did you ever see a movie queen, at a wardrobe fitting, rip a dress to shreds because it didn't have a certain kind of don-dad on it? Did you ever hear a great lover bawl out a scared waitress for not serving him ahead a ivth'g ahead of a couple of minor players who came in first? Did you—

Q.—Pardon me, Mr. Clark—are you interviewing me?

Don't interrupt! He's Got to Get It Said

A.—Never mind; I'm telling you. Did you ever see a big executive take a little executive's dolls away from him and break up his nice, shiny romances?

Interruption by Miss Wilson: Naughty-naughty, badly-waddy!

A.—And tattle-tales! Imagine a big lumme-x like You-Know-Who running to the boss and hollering, "I won't play with that girl! She bites!"

And movie people brag just as extravagantly as children are supposed to. One man says, "I bet I'm gonna make the biggest, grandest picture that ever was!" Another man says so, he's gonna make a bigger one, on account of his bankers will let him do anything he wants to.

So the first one says HSS bankers probably will give him an allowance of two million dollars to spend, and or two high schools in large cities, courses were arbitrarily laid out. There was some allowance made for these who wished commercial work instead of academic preparation, and sometimes there was latitude in one direction. A boy could take Greek instead of Latin, perhaps, or logic instead of chemistry. But that just about ended it.

There were, of course, no vocational high schools. One of the hottest debates I ever put up with was a high school principal who insisted that a smattering of mechanics and a dab of domestic science was the height of vocational training. And I insisted with equal fervor that the time would come when high schools would either have to put up or shut up, unless they built some of their schools with the intention of teaching children how to make a living apart from the field of liberal arts.

He thought I was most radical. I thought he lacked vision. Why continue to teach children dead languages when it was life they had to fight? Since then it has all been arranged. Today boys and girls are learning, and learning well, trades that will be of service. The cultural courses, too, offer almost any assortment of subjects.

However, grade schools, I think, will never be able to split their courses with any success. And if parents would stop to think, the things the child gets in elementary school are basic foundations that every literate person needs.

It would be a happy time, no doubt, for everybody if the routine could be broken down into just what every pupil likes best, or what his parents wish him to concentrate upon. But except in the case of the backward child, and, of course, the mental deviate, the school body as a whole will have to learn what it is taught.

THE judges conferred a moment. The senior looked up: "The foul is"—his face was stern—"disallowed!"

Linda Gordon looked at Monte Hill—shook her head, turned her back on him, forever.

They were sitting at the dinner table in a cottage behind the track: Sandy Gordon, Linda, Bruce. "Uncle, I'm giving you one-third—$10,000—of our win and sales money," Linda said, with a fond smile. "The rest goes—"

"Goes into an annuity for you," Bruce spoke quickly.

Uncle Sandy nodded. "I can buy three-four right nice 3-year-olds with my money—"

"Callie," Linda smiled up at the buxom woman passing the cranberries, "is Norman in the kitchen?"

"Is he?" Callie grinned. "He's gnawin' away on de turkey drumstick this minute."

"Tell him to come in—bring his drumstick, too."

Norman came to the door, a big grin on his face. "You wants me, Miss Linda? Here I is."

"Yes, Norman. We're all going home, tomorrow. Next week, Mr. Bruce and I will be married in the front parlor of Radford Farms—a day before it is sold. And, Norman—" she leaned forward, smiled, said: "It's an old southern custom for the colored folks to be married in the white folks' parlor. So, since you and Callie have been engaged all these years—we thought you'd like to be married after we are. Wouldn't you, Norman?"

Norman gulped—his eyes grew wide and white.

"In de parlor, wid you all there?" A big grin cut across his dusky face. He looked toward the smiling Callie. "Yes, ma'am, I shore would! If—if Sis' Callie will have me."

(THE END)

The baby isn't about to cry. He's Paul Clark, Jr., of the "Boy Meets Girl" cast, and that look on his face comes from thinking about some of the older babies in the movies. Marie Wilson is seen here in a supporting role.

say, "Ah, a touch of temperament." Q.—Do you expect to continue in the movies, Mr. Clark?

A.—Well, I'm luckier than most, on account of a good picture and getting lots of fan mail. I might even last as long as Baby LeRoy, who quit at 30 months. I've got a sister, though, Kathleen, who was washed up at 12 months.

The average screen baby's career is only three weeks. And it's typical of Hollywood that the older he gets and the more he knows, the less he earns. New babies get $75 a day; after one month they get $50 a day, and after three months, $25. After six months they're only paid $11, unless they're lucky enough to have a contract.

Imagine—a measly $11, while $5000-a-week stars are unwilling to work with 'em because the kids steal all the scenes!

Comment from Miss Wilson: Poor little oozums-woozums!

A Book a Day

By Bruce Catton

The Revolution Divides a Family

Novels of America's past have been struck off, with surpassing talent of late, and Cyril Harris has added distinction in a superb story of the Revolution "Trumpets at Dawn" (Scriveners Sons $2.50).

Mr. Harris lays his novel against the full background of the war for independence, sweeping you along from 1775 to 1783 with enough action to bolster any two good novels, but with a tender story of young love without to personalize the narrative.

It centers around the family of Horatio Wyatt, wealthy New York shipping merchant, his son, Sam, and daughter, Kitty, and Kitty's betrothed, Charles Townsend. When the war opens, Horatio chooses to stand with the king and Tory business. So the Wyatt thereafter become a divided house, hold.

You follow them through the Revolution on a score of fronts. One feels at times that perhaps Mr. Harris has contrived a bit too clearly to that. But in any event he whirls you along through the battle of Long Island, the battle of Trenton, the crossing of the Delaware, the discovery of Arnold's treachery, and the hanging of Major Andre.

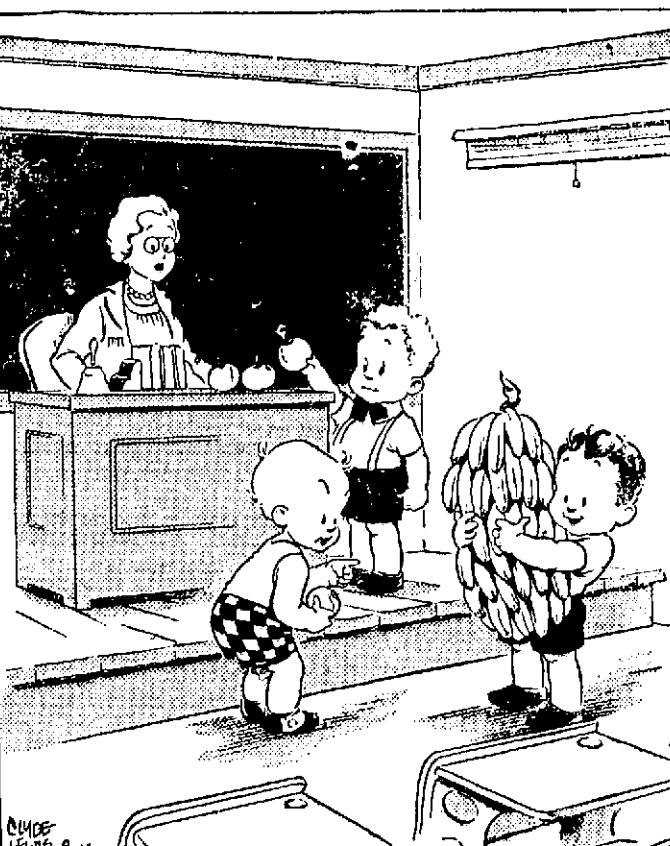

And the whole is drawn dramatically. Certainly there has not been a finer piece of narrative in a long time than his recital of the capture the trail under General Greene, and the last hours of the British in America.

Nor does Mr. Harris stop with these highlights. His story becomes an intimate picture of the life and love and hopes of all Colonial Americans, closing logically with the war itself.

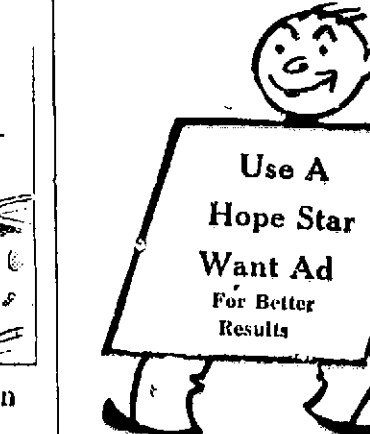

One hopes to hear more from Mr. Harris, himself a Nova Scotian and descendant of both loyalists and patriots in the Revolution—P. G. F.

The Seasons
The four seasons in four forms appear, shape they wear.
Spring first, like infancy, shoots out her head.
With milky juice requiring to be fed.
Proceeding onward, whence the year began.
The summer grows adult, and ripens into man.
Autumn succeeds, a sober tepid age.
Not frozen with fear, nor boiling into rage.
Last, winter creeps along with tardy pace.
Cour on his front, and furrowed in his face.

Miss Sarah Ann Holland has returned from a visit with relatives and friends in Greenville, Texas.

Miss Dorothy Ginter will leave Monday for Denton, Texas, where she will enter her junior year in Texas College for Women.

Miss Kathleen Cooper left Tuesday for Belton, Texas, where she will resume her studies in Mary Hardin Baylor College. James Robert Cooper leaves Saturday for Waco, where he is a student in Baylor University.

Troup No. 1 Girl Scouts are requested to meet at 4 o'clock, Thursday afternoon at the First Baptist church for a swim and picnic lunch at the Pines.

Miss Patricia Thomas left Sunday for Arkadelphia where she will enroll in Henderson State Teachers College.

Among Hope friends attending the funeral services held for Mrs. Sallie Elder in Washington Tuesday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Jesson Pilkinton, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Trimble, Mrs. Will Orton, Miss June Orton, Miss Mary Corrigan, Miss Ellen Corrigan, Crit Stuart, Kelly Briant and A. E. Stonequest.

Pitched Battles

the peace.

Easing of Tension
Two factors pointed to a possible amelioration of the war fever. In Berlin a propaganda ministry spokesman refused to regard the Sudeten demands as an ultimatum. In Paris diplomatic circles said there was a split in the British and French cabinets over Sudeten demands for a plebiscite. Czech sources in Paris said the Prague government might be forced to hold a plebiscite—which some believe was the demand Adolf Hitler made in his Nuremberg speech Monday asking "self-determination" for the German minority.

In both London and Paris government leaders acted hastily. Britain's defense ministers met with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in a virtual war council, and Premier Edouard Daladier of France kept a late watch at the War Ministry with high military advisors. Both countries were prepared for almost any emergency.

Germany Is Silent
BERLIN, Germany.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler kept his own counsel in his Bavarian mountain home early Wednesday while reports of more Sudeten Germans killed in Czechoslovakia developed. His government watched developments closely and anxiously.

Officials were very cautious in their comment while the official German news agency issued a denial from a "reformed quarters" of reports circulated abroad of a "partial German mobilization." The denial characterized these reports as "nonsense."

No mention was made of a Sudeten German ultimatum to the Czechoslovak government. Instead, the news agency spoke of "four demands" presented by the Sudetens to President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia. A propaganda ministry spokesman said the Sudeten move was not "considered an ultimatum" in Germany. He added that the demands were a matter concerning the Sudeten Germans alone.

There were no external signs of the government's vigilance shortly after midnight. The Wilhelmstrasse was dark and quiet.

Nazis Astonished
Extreme bitterness was expressed in Nazi quarters as they waited for Hitler to make some move. Nazis were astonished that six Sudeten Germans were killed according to their reports, and the Prague government dared impose martial law only a few hours after Hitler at Nuremberg warned that "the Sudeten Germans are neither defenseless nor abandoned" by their friends.

(Prague dispatches said four Sudetens were killed in the disorders.) Nazi spokesmen said the Czech action created a new situation and "justified the worst fears." They accused the Prague government of "open trea-

Natural Girl Acts the Way She Looks and Always Wins Real Admiration for It

By MARIAN YOUNG
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK.—The Natural Girl doesn't think the world owes her admiration. She's willing to earn it. And she does—not by posing all over the place, looking and being bored except when she's the center of attraction—but by being a reasonably well informed, interested and interesting person who can contribute some thing to any gathering.

A Natural is a wonderful listener. But an intelligent listener—not a blank-faced, unresponsive one. Furthermore she doesn't think it dull to listen to or talk to another woman. Sincerely liking women is part of her natural charm, and the fact that like her, too, gets her more invitations to more interesting parties than any glamor girl ever had.

Her manners simple, sincere, healthy natural.

She doesn't accept invitations from people she doesn't like simply because she hopes to meet people she will like at their houses. She doesn't go out a second time with a man she can't tolerate just for the sake of going somewhere. She knows better than to try to impress any man about the exciting date she had last week or by intimating that she is a gloriously popular, sought-after creature.

She doesn't, in the old Glamor Girl manner, keep others waiting so she can make an impressive entrance. She's as punctual about her engagement, business or social, as any considerate, successful male executive.

However, considerate through Miss Nature is, she never exudes "charm." And get just about as far. She's gentlemanly who seldom loses her temper, and she isn't nabby-pamby. She can prove a point without seeming unfeminine. And she doesn't resort to the kind of craftiness which has gained women the reputation of not being as trustworthy as men.

Typical of her kind some of the newcomers to John Robert Powers' famous list of photographers' models. Although strikingly beautiful (and how could they help but know it?) not one of them believes that she can get by on looks alone. Being easy to work with, able to remain good-natured when tired and having a sense of humor are part and parcel of the 1938 model's bag of tricks.

Furthermore a great deal of a model's success depends on her ability to retain her individuality. She, like Miss Nature, doesn't let herself become a type. A pleasant difference between Natural Girls and the now outmoded Glamor Girls is that one can claim true membership in the former category without looking, acting and thinking

Katherine Aldridge, above, one of John Robert Powers' most famous models is the personification of the Natural Girl and rather convincing proof that Beauty can go along with brains. She is twenty, a former secretary, unmarried, and not interested in Hollywood, at all like all other Natural Girls. Glamor Girls resemble one another all too closely. With her pale, rougless cheeks, bleacher hair cascading over her shoulders or else dragging down her face in Page Boy effect, clavicle, scarlet finger-nails, painfully thin figure, affected mannerisms and a vacant stare, even a noise could spot a Glamor Girl a mile away. The Natural Girl's claim to glory depends on no such artificials. She may be tall, short, plump or slender or all too closely. With her hair up or down. But she's amusing without being sarcastic or caty, can win a man's admiration without turning on oceans of sex-appeal, realizes that her mind is something to be used, is gay, friendly, healthy happy. In other words, she's fun to have around. She's a Natural!

Will Ask Hines Same Query Again

Prosecutor Dewey Continues Question Was Perfectly Legal

NEW YORK.—(AP)—The question which moved Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora to declare a mistrial for James J. Hines will be repeated by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey when the Tammany district leader stands trial again on charges he provided political protection for the Dutch Schultz policy racket. Dewey's aides made this clear Tuesday as they emphasized their conviction that the district attorney had not erred legally in asking the 14-word question which Justice Pecora characterized as "fatally prejudicial" to Hines' fundamental rights.

Justice Pecora, recognizing that his decision had been criticized in some quarters, declared Tuesday a reversal would have resulted had the case gone to the jury and Hines been found guilty. The expense, he said, would have been greater in the case of a retrial than in a mistrial.

Dewey himself said: "Hines will be brought to justice. I will move for a new trial at the earliest possible date."

Dewey's aides said "the same or an identical indictment" would be used against Hines and Dewey himself defended the indictment as "perfect."

The district attorney's assistants said the cases which Justice Pecora had cited in support of his decision were not relevant to the indictment in the Hines case.

The motion for a mistrial, made Saturday by Defense Lawyer Lloyd Paul Stryker, was based on a question asked by Dewey during cross-examination of Lyon Boston, an assistant district attorney under former District Attorney William C. Dodge.

Boston testified there was insufficient evidence presented to the 1935 "runaway" Grand Jury for Hines' indictment.

"Don't you remember any testimony about Hines and the poultry racket there by him?" Dewey asked, referring to one of the grand jury witnesses.

Justice Pecora said Tuesday that had Dewey said "poultry business" instead of "poultry racket" the mistrial motion would in all probability have been denied.

Bransford Faces Speakership Fight

Nyberg Takes Issue With Governor's Endorsement Statement

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—Governor Bailey gave John M. Bransford of Lonoke his "nod" of approval Tuesday for re-election as speaker of the House when the legislature convenes next January, but, his plea that other candidates for the post "make it unanimous" fell on deaf ears in at least two instances.

In a telegram to Representative Edward B. Bryson of Prescott, Leo E. Nyberg of Helena and James R. Campbell of Hot Springs and Carroll C. Hollensworth of Warren, representative nominee, all of whom had been mentioned as possible candidates for the speakership when the legislature convenes next January, Governor Bailey said: "Sentiment of Assembly members as

Baptism Is Theme of Collins' Talk

Big Crowd Greeted Evangelist at Gospel Tabernacle Service

Evangelist Dexter E. Collins of Granada, Minn., spoke Tuesday night at the revival at the Hope Gospel Tabernacle on the subject, "The Baptism of the Holy Spirit and How to Receive It."

He stated that the paramount need of the church today is the Baptism of the Holy Spirit for power to serve God acceptably.

There was a splendid response to the call to accept the Lord and re-consecration as the evangelist closed the sermon and people from all over the house came to the old fashioned prayer altar.

Friends, visitors and members alike are enjoying the timely preaching of the forceful speaker nightly. Some are actually receiving the baptism of the Holy Spirit as in Bible times.

The general public is invited to attend the services which begin each night at 8 o'clock. Rev. Collins promises one of the most interesting sermons of the campaign for Wednesday night.

Mr. Nyberg issued a statement Tuesday night indicating that as far as he is concerned, the "unanimous" part definitely is "out."

"I am not at all pleased with the governor's selection and am considering running as an independent," Mr. Nyberg, a patient at the Wildcat Mountain tuberculosis sanatorium near Fort Smith, said.

Explaining that he had talked or written to many of the veteran house members and knew twosilassgelrt members and they knew nothing of the "large majority" mentioned in Mr. Bailey's telegram, Representative Nyberg said:

"I am wondering who this overwhelming majority is."

Tydings Increases Lead Over Lewis

Popular Lead Rises to 47,000 Votes in Maryland Primary

BALTIMORE, Md.—(AP)—Victor over the New Deal congressional purge, Senator Millard E. Tydings jubilantly watched late Tuesday night pile up a popular plurality that indicated a landslide in the state nominating convention September 28.

The conservative Democrat, seeking renomination for his third term in the United States Senate against the direct opposition of President Roosevelt, led Representative David J. Lewis in 20 of Maryland's 23 counties and in four of Baltimore's six districts, several complete. On the basis of convention votes, Tydings apparently was assured of 117 to Lewis' 52.

The Eastern Shore counties, where President Roosevelt visited Labor Day in behalf of Lewis, rejected him in favor of Tydings by almost a 2-to-1 plurality.

Arthur E. Hungerford, New Dealer and third entry in the bitter contest, was never a factor in the race.

The unofficial popular vote from 1,023 polling places out of 1,288 gave:
Tydings 149,663
Lewis 102,107
Hungerford 7,939

Humbled Britain In Naval Battle

"WE have met the enemy and they are ours. Two ships, two brigs, one schooner and one sloop."

Thus, on Sept. 10, 125 years ago, did young Oliver Hazard Perry, commander of the Great Lakes fleet of the infant United States Navy, laconically announce to the world his victory over the English in the battle of Lake Erie.

During the war of 1812, Perry was ordered to build a fleet at Presque Isle, now Erie, Pa., to check the British threat of invasion from the north. With nine ships, he sailed against the larger and stronger British fleet. His own flagship, Lawrence, was disabled in the battle, so he abandoned it for the Niagara, and soon forced the enemy to surrender.

Although Perry had opened the way, the Americans were unable to invade Canada. His victory, however, remains one of the greatest traditions of the Navy.

Congress rewarded Perry by advancing him to the rank of captain and gave him a gold medal. In 1815-16 Perry commanded the "Java" in the Mediterranean expedition. He died of yellow fever at Port of Spain, Trinidad, Aug. 13, 1819, at the age of 34.

Perry is shown on the 90-cent U. S. postage stamp, enlarged, above, of the issue of 1870. The ropes, anchors and stars included in its design commemorate his achievement on Lake Erie.

Football Fans Get First Glimpse of Bobcat Team in Action

500 Turn Out for Practice Session

Team Makes Preparations for Opening Game With Haynesville

By LEONARD ELLIS
Between 400 and 500 fans watched the Hope High School football squad go through a scrimmage session Tuesday night in preparation for the opening game of the season Friday night at Haynesville, La.

The probable starting lineup against Haynesville, dressed in brilliant red uniforms, took the field against a white-shirted team. For an hour and a half the two teams scrimmaged, the red team stressing offensive tactics. Occasionally the ball was given to the white-shirted team which was unable to make much headway in advancing the ball toward the goal line.

Strong Backfield
From this writer's viewpoint, it appeared that Tommy Samuels, 150-pound quarterback, will be the key man of the Bobcat offense. He runs, kicks and fires short and long passes with speed and accuracy.

Stationed in the backfield with Samuels is "Duke" Daniels, 180-pound fullback, who looks potent in off-tackle plays at the line; Joe Eason at right half, only veteran of last year's team, who also smashes the line and is a capable passer.

Baker and Coleman are making bids for a backfield berth. Both are shifty, fast, and will see plenty of action when the season gets underway.

Showing brilliantly in early season drills is Roy Taylor, one of the finest looking centers in Hope High School history. Work during the summer months has rounded this 170-pound dark-skinned youth near the peak of condition. His performance Tuesday night was heartening to Bobcat supporters. Coach Hammons would be greedy if he asked for a better center.

Two fine guards were lost last year when Woodrow Parsons and G. V. Keith graduated—but present now are Dean Parsons and Quimby. Dean is an experienced man and appears to be set in that position. Quimby is inexperienced, but shows indications of holding down his position.

Tackles Question Mark
The tackle positions are somewhat of a question mark. Filling the holes left by Freeman Stone and Grady Quimby, lost through graduation, is a problem that has not been definitely settled. "Tarzan" Green and Major Simpson will probably be the starters this season.

Several candidates are after the end positions. Ellen and Fulkerson appear to have first call at the present time. Whether they will continue there remains to be seen as Coach Hammons has announced that the line is not definitely settled except possibly in two places.

Individually, the boys look like they "have it" collectively the team could use some more fire and dash which usually comes after the first or second game.

The team will be sent through a brisk session Wednesday afternoon with a light drill scheduled for Thursday.

Stiedle Is Eliminated in Oakmount Tourney

OAKMOUNT, Pa. — (AP) — Frank Stiedle, of Helena, former Arkansas champion, was defeated in the first round of the national amateur golf tournament Wednesday by Dick Chapman, of Greenwich, Conn., 4 and 3.

CHICAGO — (AP) — Chicago Cub scouts travel more than 30,000 miles to watch 7,500 minor-league ball players every summer. Of this number, about 20 minor-leaguers with marked major-league ability are spotted.

Panthers Looking Good, Says Report

Camden to Take on Smackover High School Friday Night

CAMDEN, Ark.—After one of the hardest scrimmage sessions of the season, the Camden Panthers Tuesday began preparations for their opening game against Smackover's strong Buckaroos here Friday night at 8 o'clock.

The Bucks have a new coach this season and they are reported strong and pointing for the Camden game. This will be the first game in the completed stadium and a record crowd is expected.

Coach Sam Coleman and Assistant Coach Gus Ellis drove the Panthers hard Monday and several boys looked good in the rough going.

Handicapped by the loss of two starters from this year's team and a complete backfield of last year, the coaches must build an offense around only one veteran, Clyde (Nub) Smith.

Smith however played in the line and has never lettered in the backfield. His brother, Lafayette earned his letter last year, is handicapped by illness. But Brown, Mann, McKenna, and E. White who played at end last year, have been showing up well and will see action Friday.

Other boys are fighting hard for places and the spirit of the team this year is one of the best in history. In the line, Allen, at center, Gutrey and Taylor at guards, McGuire and Stodder at tackles, Greening and Thornton at ends, look like starters. The team is weak on reserves and these starters will have to bear most of the burden until later on in the season when the new boys develop and get experience.

Rain Again Delays Softball Play-Off

Harvesters of Little Rock Will Play for Title Wednesday

CHICAGO — (AP) — Rain Tuesday night caused the second postponement of final in the international softball championship at Soldier Field. The games were rescheduled for Wednesday night. The International Harvesters of Little Rock, Ark., and the Panthers of Cincinnati, O., are paired in the men's finals, with the Chicago Down Drafts and the Knights of Alameda, Calif., in the girls' division.

Notre Dame Squad
NOTRE DAME—The 95 candidates comprising the initial turnout for the University of Notre Dame football squad represented 22 states and 80 cities. The wide geographical distribution accurately reflects the personnel of the student body, in which are represented every state and several foreign countries. When the rest of the gridiron squad of some 200 men report with the opening of classes, the number of states and towns accounted for will increase until nearly all of the 48 states are represented.

Clarksville Team Seeks Game Friday

Football Suits Lost, Siloam Springs Unable to Play

CLARKSVILLE, Ark.—(AP)—Loss of a shipment of football uniforms, last reported to be somewhere in New Mexico, will prevent Siloam Springs playing Clarksville here Friday, Coach Nig Black of Siloam Springs informed Coach Matheny here.

The uniforms were sent away to be cleaned and were lost in shipping while being returned, Black said. Matheny is attempting to schedule another game for Friday.

Chicks and Vols Win First Games

Memphis Smothers Atlanta 12 to 2; Vols Beat Pels 2 to 1

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — (AP) — Memphis smothered Atlanta under an avalanche of base hits Tuesday night while their ace righthander, Carl Doyle was hurling eight-hit ball to win the first game of the Shaugnessy play-off with the pennant-winning Crackers. The score was 12-2.

Beaumont Wins Opener
BEAUMONT, Texas — (AP) — In the presence of Governor James V. Allred, Governor-Elect W. Lee O'Daniel and 3800 Texas fans, Beaumont defeated Tulsa 6 to 5 in 11 innings Tuesday afternoon to open the first round of the Shaugnessy play-off.

It was a loosely played affair but none the less thrilling, for the home team scored two runs in the ninth to tie the score and then won two innings later on a scratch hit an error and Marvin Garner's single over first.

Neither Van Olsen or Dizzy Trout the starting pitchers, was around at the finish. The winning flinger was Ed Colway while the loss was charged to George Milstead.

Dr. Jock Sutherland nodded . . . together?"

Dr. Sutherland asserted that Goldberg is playing fullback only because he hasn't anybody else.

Goldberg Would Me Sub
"Fortunately he won't," explains the doctor. "He won't of course, be able to break into the open so much as from half and he'll have a lot more things to do. But he's got plenty of drive, and we may be able to do something with him off tackle. Goldberg going to fullback means that we'll have to play Dick Cassiano at half. And he was only a substitute last season."

Cassiano only scored seven touchdowns and gained 620 yards from scrimmage in his 1937 appearances. Yet Dr. Sutherland professes to believe that Cassiano may not be so good.

"Last season Cassiano looked fair when we stuck him in for Goldberg," he says. "But I think that was because the opposition subconsciously let down defensively when it saw Goldberg leave, and that it didn't function so smoothly against Cassiano."

Dr. Sutherland asserts that Goldberg would play tackle or scrub guard if his coach asked him to.

He's the most unspoiled boy for fame he has achieved that I ever saw," says the doctor. "His home town, Elkins, W. Va., gave a party for him."

Southwest Arkansas Tournament at Fair Park September 20 to 24

The medals and trophies for the Southwest Arkansas Tennis tournament are on display in the window of Stewart's Jewelry store. The trophies are of the pedestal type and are gold-plated.

Ed Barrett, Little Rock singles champion, will play the winner of the men's singles in an exhibition match Sunday afternoon following the tournament.

Then Mr. Barnett will pair with Fred Brown, fourth ranking Little Rock player against the winning team of doubles. Barnett has a good assortment of shots and is very adept in side line strategy. He is a consistent player and has excellent form.

The entry list for the tournament will close at noon Saturday September 17, and the drawing will be made that afternoon.

Word is being rushed on the new court at Fair Park to get it into condition in time for the tournament play.

The tournament will be held September 20 to 24 as a feature of the county fair.
